

Dear FCC, I am unhappy to hear that the FCC is considering implementing a proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved my time at home by lessening numerous calls from unsolicited people. (I wish the political calls before the November elections could have been stopped as well since many were very negative.) I hardly ever receive any calls anymore that are unsolicited. Please do not weaken or override Indiana's law. I am very happy not to get so many phone calls.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Marie Harnish
